Volume IX

Number 1

January 1977

Address all communications to Professor Gene Garthwaite, the Secretary of the Society for Iranian Studies, History Department, Dartmouth College, Hanover, New Hampshire 03755.

ANNUAL MEETING OF SIS

The Society's Eleventh Annual Meeting was held during November 10-13, 1976 in Los Angeles, California, in conjunction with the Tenth Annual Meeting of the Middle East Studies Association of North America (MESA). Our panels on "Contemporary Shi'i Practices: An Anthropological Perspective," "Educational Policy in Iran: A Workshop," and "Medieval Persian Narrative Literature," were well attended. On behalf of the Society, the Executive Secretary would like to thank Professor Eric Hooglund, our program chairman, for organizing these panels.

The Society's business meeting was held in the late afternoon of Thursday, November 10. At the business meeting, the following reports were submitted by the officers of the Society. (All three reports have been updated to include the period since the November meeting.)

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE SECRETARY (Ervand Abrahamian)

REPORT OF THE TREASURER (Thomas Ricks)

The Society's accounts are now in the Riggs National Bank of Washington, D.C., following the transfer of treasurer responsibilities from Ann Schulz to me. The move in the past year of books and accounts from Boston and New York to Washington, D.C. went smoothly principally due to the excellent work of Ann Schulz over the past nine years! We all owe Ann the warm and lasting gratitude commensurate with a task always done well and usually without public observation. Thank you, Ann.

We have increased our regular membership and continue to gain in both the categories of institutional subscriptions and contributions. The significance of these increases should be noted; that is, all three categories account for 85 percent of our revenues. The contributions from the following individuals have been most gratifying: A. Banani, A. Ashraf, J. Clinton, M. Zonis, Y. Armajani, A. Fatemi, T. Childs, D. Bishop, J. Gulick, B. Guilani, A. Banuazizi, K. Luther, R. Cottam, H. Ladjevardi, A. Martinez, S. Shafii, F. Daftari and H. Farmayan. Finally, the institutional subscriptions of $500 from the University of Texas and the University of Utah will be most beneficial to the Society.

While the balance is impressive for 1976, I should remind each member of our plans to publish double-issues of the Journal, to begin a Bibliography of Iran and to launch an intensive public relations drive through increased advertising in relevant publications in the U.S. and in Europe. To meet these activities of the Society and the usual expenditures of our Journal, we will need the memberships constant support through 1977. We look forward to both financial and intellectual support of all in the Society as Iranian Studies continues its impressive growth.

REPORT OF THE EDITOR OF IRANIAN STUDIES (Ali Banuazizi)

In 1976, only two issues of the Journal (Vol. VIII, Nos. 1 & 2) were published, thus putting us behind schedule by over six months. This lag however, will be bridged within the first half of 1977 since, in addition to the issue that is being mailed with this Newsletter, another double-issue is currently in the final stage of its preparation and will be distributed in the first week of March. The last issue of Vol. IX, also, is scheduled to go to the press by early April.

The Journal's growth over the past two years is reflected in an increasing number of manuscripts submitted for publication--almost three times as many as are finally published, a growing list of library and institutional subscribers (currently approaching 200), and the indexing of the articles from the Journal in all relevant periodical indices. According to a recently signed agreement, back issues of Iranian Studies are being put on microfiche by Johnson Associates without any charge to the Society. This will make the back volumes available to libraries, especially outside the United States, at a reduced cost.

Two special issues of the Journal are currently being prepared for publication in 1977 and 1978. The first is a special double-issue, to be edited by Professor Amin Banani, on "State and Society in Iran." It will contain a number of papers that were presented at a conference on the same theme, cosponsored by the Near East Center of UCLA and the Society several years ago, as well as a number of more recent contributions. The articles comprising this issue will also be published by the Society as a separate volume for wider distribution.

The other special issue currently under preparation will be edited by Professor Nasser Pakdaman (Faculty of Economics, University of Tehran). The theme of the issue will be economic history of Iran during the nineteenth century.

A major expansion and a number of important changes in the editorial responsibilities of the Journal were approved by the Council of the Society at its November meeting in Los Angeles. Beginning with Vol. IX, Mangol Bayat

Philipp (History, Harvard University) and Vahaid F. Nowshirvani (Economics, Yale University) will serve as Associate Editors together with Anna Enayat, who will be continuing in the same post. In addition, Ervand Abrahamian and Marcia Mottahedeh were appointed to the two newly created positions of Book Review Editor and Assistant Editor, respectively. And, for the first time, circulation and business correspondence of the Journal will be carried out by a part-time professional staff person, Christine L. Brennan. I have no doubt that both the quality and the operational efficiency of Iranian Studies will be considerably enhanced by the above additions to the editorial staff. As in the past, consultation and advice on each manuscript will be sought from specialists in the relevant field from outside the editorial staff.

Finally, I wish to take this opportunity to thank Jerome Clinton for his invaluable contribution as Associate Editor for the past six years. The Journal gained enormously from his high standards of scholarship and editorial skills, and I am deeply gratified that he has promised to help and advise us in the future.

By its very nature and definition, an editor's task would be impossible without the advice and close cooperation of editorial referees and others who assist in the various chores of editing and production. Over the past year, I feel especially indebted to the following individuals: Ervand Abrahamian, Ahmad Ashraf, Sally Atkins, Marina Banuazizi, Ilhan Basgoz, James Bill, Jane Clinton, Constance Cronin, Renata Holod, William Irons, Farhad Kazemi, Firuz Kazemzadeh, Nikki Keddie, Ina Moses, Marcia Mottahedeh, Vahid Nowshirvani, Nasser Pakdaman, Wendy Schoenfeld, Donald Shojai, Mark Slobin, and Marvin Zonis.

ELECTIONS TO THE COUNCIL

At the Annual Business Meeting, Michael Fischer, Grace Goodell, and Shahla Hairi were elected to serve on the Election Committee. The following nominations were submitted to the Society: Ali Banuazizi, Oleg Grabar, Eric Hooglund, Mangol Bayat Philipp, and Marvin Zonis. The elections were conducted by mail and were counted by the Election Committee. The following three were elected to the Council of the Society for the period of 1977-79: Ali Banuazizi, Oleg Grabar, and Marvin Zonis.

THE TWELFTH ANNUAL MEETING IN NEW YORK CITY

At the Annual Business Meeting, the members of the Society voted to have at the next Annual Meeting a panel on Urbanism in Iran and a workshop on Sexuality in Iran. Professor Mary-Jo Del Vecchio Good, of the Department of Psychiatry at University of California in Davis, has agreed to be Program Director for our sessions.

NOTE FROM THE EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

I would like to thank the many friends, especially Ali Banuazizi, James Bill, Jerry Clinton, Gene Garthwaite--the forthcoming Executive Secretary, Farhad Kazemi, Michael Fischer, and Tom Ricks for helping me during the past year while I served as Executive Secretary.
